FACULTY

WHEN a photographer plans a picture, he groups the parts that were assembled and arranges the background in varying degrees to balance with the subject. Thus it is with the Washington faculty, who mold and form the school lives of their students with skill, realizing the value of classwork enlivened by extra-curricular activities. As lights and shadows are used in a composition, so the teachers intermingle interesting and difficult work. With care and attention, they guide the interests and develop the talents of their students, besides instilling in them the true desire to study and learn. They can be justly proud that the students at Washington show the results of the work and interest the faculty have bestowed upon them.

AS THE photographer gazes at the completed specimen, so the faculty and student body view the graduates with esteem and admiration. Their apprenticeship develops a finished picture, and they now look forward to a new task, a new set of prints—the future. Some will bring their echo of footsteps upon a college campus; while others will be "tramping the asphalt", seeking a job. However, whenever, wherever they will be, they will no doubt always remember the three years they spent as students at Washington. As they leave the final "proof" behind and slowly mount the ladder of success, they consider themselves fully educated until they meet the more advanced and grow to realize that graduation is just one of many steps to be surmounted toward the goal of true education.

CLASSES

A PICTURE of the school as a whole features the classes as the main object of interest with sports, activities, and the faculty grouped around them. Such an arrangement is natural when one considers that anything other than classes is merely auxiliary to the central theme, which in this case is learning. Everything else serves to accentuate, give emphasis to, or add to the subject. Comprising the classes are almost twenty-five hundred students: the partially established sophomores, more confident juniors, excited semester-sevens, and dignified seniors. Washington High has a student body of which to be proud, and the student body, a school of which to be proud. The two of them unite to form one grand combination.

ORGANIZATIONS

THE secret of the "perfect" picture lies in the combined effects of light and shadows. The portions to be emphasized are brought out with linear direction, correct composition, or special brightness; the defects are hidden by shadows. So it is in school. Here the side-lights are directed toward organizations. Provisions are made for training in specialized fields: in dramatics, writing, athletics. Some endeavors are directed toward promoting high-school fellowship and genuine good times. Through participation in extra-curricular activities, the student develops leadership and social ease in coordination with scholastic growth. Such a student has a well-rounded career: each phase of school life is emphasized in accordance with its importance. Such a career, though difficult to obtain, is ultimately viewed with the utmost satisfaction.

Washington Students Proudly Covet National Honor Membership

With the insignia of the flaming torch and keystone as an incentive, Washingtonians each year strive to excel in character, leadership, scholarship, and service. In due recognition, Washington awards the National Honor Society insignia every semester to those graduating seniors who have proved outstanding in all four of these lines. Election to this national organization is the highest honor a student may receive . . . He who wears the National Honor pin or pendant must be a person of character. It can be said of him that he has always measured up to the very highest qualifications . . . Those honored must also have shown leadership in supervising one of the various activities of the clubs, holding office, or, in general, leading their class groups . . . These are the same pupils who have maintained scholastic averages of eighty-five or above throughout their school career . . . Something more, however, is essential before a student can merit National Honor membership: he must have rendered service to his school. Here at Washington these fortunate seniors have been monitors in one of the various capacities or served through extra-curricular activities. . . . The National Honor Society symbolizes not merely what the ideal high school student should be, but what he really is. It serves as an anspiration to future seniors to pattern their school lives after those who have successfully preceded them. And so the school honors its outstanding students by presenting them with membership in the Washington chapter of the National Honor Society.

Outstanding Journalists Merit Quill-and-Scroll Recognition

High in the ambitions of every high school journalist is his election to membership into Quill and Scroll. This honorary society is international in its scope, ever seeking to maintain the high standards of journalism. . . . Membership in Washington's Chapter of Quill and Scroll is truly an honor, for only those fulfilling the highest qualifications are accepted. . . . The candidate must have done outstanding work in the field of journalism, in addition to possessing superior character traits and being in the upper third of the class. Nomination by the faculty critics of either of the two publications and acceptance by the national secretary are the two final requirements. . . . Last January, mid-year candidates were honored at an informal tea given by the faculty critics. Held during the eighth hour, the tea afforded all school journalists an opportunity to witness the ceremonies. . . . Fritz Wetzel, a student member of the Quill and Scroll, presided. With emphasis upon the significance of the award, Principal George J. Balzer administered to the members the oath of allegiance. Probably the most impressive portion of the entire program was this initiation ceremony when candles, representing the ideals and standards of journalism, were lighted. . . . June graduates received their certificates at the annual Quill and Scroll banquet held on May 28. Because this was the twenty-fifth initiation service as well as the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Scroll Yearbook, a special program was prepared by the alumni. All united in singing the new Quill and Scroll song. . . . Congratulations to those hardworking, outstanding journalists who merited Quill-and-Scroll membership.

Pursuing its long record of outstanding achievement in journalism, our SCROLL, capably edited by Lois Thalman and Phyllis Rabinowitz, won the Pacemaker rating for the seventh consecutive year. . . . At the N. S. P. A. convention, held in Chicago, Miss Rose Helen Hauer, Scroll director, was chairman of an all-morning panel. Bill Wendt, one of three speakers on sports-page typography, also conducted a discussion. . . . In March a meeting of the Greater Milwaukee Association of High School Directors of Publications featured a model board meeting headed by Phyllis Rabinowitz. . . . A newswriting class under Miss Hauer's direction provides training in fundamentals to future journalists. Special editors train staffs working under them. . . . Emerging victorious as sectional winners in the Quill and Scroll international contest were Marian Brach, Ardis Candy, and Shirley Weinshel in the headlining, editorial and feature divisions, respectively. . . . And so, now there are memories of pleasant and satisfactory work to look back upon.

The responsibility of distributing the Scroll to over 2,000 local subscribers each week during the past year rested on capable shoulders. Stuart Morrison and Alfred Ihlenfeld, co-circulation managers, efficiently supervised the six boys who popped in and out of eighth-hour classes each Wednesday bearing the paper whose headlines you most desired to see. . . . The Weekly Business staff, being a complex organization, handled much more than the distribution of the paper. It also collected subscriptions and managed, as its name indicates, the "business" part of the publication. . . . It was through the work of this department that time-subscriptions were possible. At regular intervals throughout the year, assistants prepared homeroom lists of those who owed a payment on their Scroll. . . . The business staff also organized the Advertising Club into a vital, working activity. Members solicited ads from business organizations, thus gaining valuable business experience as well as making a small amount of money on each ad. . . . Regular meetings of the club were held where entertainment was presented, reports advanced, and hints given on the correct procedure to be followed in obtaining ads. . . . The staff is truly to be congratulated on its efficient management of all Scroll Weekly business.

Many cherished memories of work, fun, and activities are found encased in a Scroll Yearbook, priceless memories that might be lost were it not for this tangible evidence. . . . The Scroll Yearbook Literary Staff, through its conscientious efforts, formulated a remodeled, "streamlined" book, a book characterized by simplicity and completeness. . . . Brightened by cheerful opening and closing devices, the book stands as a record of youth's new ideas. . . . The staff is divided into several sections—literary, organizations, typing, proof, sports, classes — each working separately yet functioning as a unit. . . . The efforts of last year's staff did not go unrewarded; for, on the merits of their book, the Scroll Yearbook again won an "All-American" rating from the National Scholastic Press Association. The present editors, who served as apprentices last year, proudly share in the gratification of that honor; they and succeeding editors will strive to emulate that record. . . .Toward the end of the term, in celebration of the completion of the yearbook, the staff held its annual picnic. Here staff and faculty members had such a good time that the picnic itself became a "yearbook" memory for every one attending.

Just as a row boat without oars cannot reach its desired destination, so too the Scroll Yearbook without its business staff could not reach your hands. . . . Their main work began on the first day of subscription taking, and a fine job they did. This staff made a truly enviable record, for this year more yearbook subscriptions were gained than in any other year in the school's history — exactly 1611. . . . A great deal of bookkeeping is connected with this work. Not only are subscriptions classified, but time payments are collected and recorded. The staff is divided into groups, each taking a certain number of rooms, to check yearbook payments. . . . Besides taking care of distributing annuals to those here at school, they mailed one to each member of the February 1940 class and 1939 Summer School class. . . . The publicity staff under the supervision of Mr. Donald Mereen deserves its just recognition. A clever skit, "The Show Boat," was only a part of the subscription campaign. Many clever darkies giving their opinions on "De Sho' Book" decorated halls and rooms as the art staff's contribution. . . . The Yearbook Business Staff deserves sincere "thanks" for its pleasant, efficient service.

Gathering at their bi-weekly meetings, Alphaneans heard debates on problems of current interest, progressive readings, orations, original skits, and musical selections. Milton Shadur led the club through a highly successful semester. Alph tried for first place in the Inter-society contest. . . . At the last meeting, which honored the graduating seniors, a party was held as a fitting conclusion to their activities. . . . Succeeding Milton to the prexyship, Dorothy Olson presided throughout an active semester. Each meeting was planned with some metal as the central topic; such as, silver, radium, steel, and gold. Several new ideas were inaugurated into the scheme of the programs. One of the novel features was a serial story, one chapter of which was written by each group, which adapted the plot to its metal and then broke off at some interesting point for the next group to continue. New also at Alph meetings were the quizzes which had the questions based on the theme metal of the meeting. . . . At the outstanding event of the semester, the mixer, those who perhaps had debated or spoken seriously at the previous meetings forgot all about rebuttals and platform deportment and joined in with their fellow Alphaneans in having a good time.

Under the able prexyships of Star Yvonne Rice and Alice Dusold, Philomathea has completed another successful year. . . . As a literary society, Philo's primary interest has been the development and appreciation of the speech arts. Directed toward this end was the debate, symposium, or panel discussion heading each program. Open Forums covered everything from President Roosevelt's third term to man's slavery to fashion. . . . Another favorite part of the programs was the progressive readings. Initiated last year because of their variety and interest, they became an established custom. . . . Unwilling to surrender her coveted Intersociety title, Philo again gained prominence and shared the first-place position. . . . During the second semester, interest was centered on the interclass contests in debating, reading, orating, and extemporaneous speaking. . . . The members were divided into five groups, each headed by a member of the program committee to provide original entertainment for the meetings. These programs ranged from interesting radio skits and plays to humorous mock trials. . . . Fun-provoking mixers were held at the beginning and end of each semester, where members played games and got acquainted. . . . The awarding of honor pins at the end of each semester climaxed the career of each active senior Philomathean.

Named after the great emancipator, Lincoln Literary Society receives inspiration from his speech precepts. Recognizing his proficiency in extemporaneous speaking, members endeavor to follow in his footsteps. . . . The theme of the programs during the first semester was American ideals and traditions. All parts of the program bore out this theme—debates, readings, skits. . . . Such subjects as the United States' policy of isolation and the "no-third-term" tradition provided theme-sustaining material for debates. . . . During the second semester, a theme of a more general nature, of modern ideas and school problems, was carried out. . . . On the lighter side of the programs were the humorous debates and skits. Members discussed whether or not chivalry was a thing of the past, and whether tooth paste or tooth powder was of greater benefit to man. . . . Climaxing the social programs, semi-annual mixers were held. Here the members got together, played games, and had a genuine good time.

On November 24 the halls of Washington resounded with ringing voices debating, reading, or orating. Of course it was Intersociety, the biggest night of the season for each of the three societies; Philomathea, Alphanea, and Lincoln. With three top-flight societies battling for that coveted first position, the race was bound to be spirited. Philo and Alph tied for first place with Lincoln right at their heels in a close second. . . . .A state problem brought into prominence by the governor's suggestion provided the subject matter for the debate, "Resolved, That Wisconsin should enact a two-per-cent retail sales tax." For weeks preceding the event, the speakers gain experience through practice debates within each society; and on this night they gave a worthy evidence of the time and effort spent. . . . The oration presented by the three societies was Roy Smith's "Born Rich," dealing with the endowments and advantages of every young American. . . . O. Henry's short story, "Last Leaf" was the serious declamation. . . . Because of the excellent performances, each contestant was entitled to feel the confidence of a job "well done."

For those students whose primary extra-curricular interest lies in the field of speech, the Forensics Class provides an excellent testing ground. Actual speaking experience plus helpful, friendly criticism by class members and faculty critic form a combination that truly leads toward proficiency. . . . In addition to the regular class sessions, members participated in interscholastic contests. Last spring Washington sponsored an invitational declamatory contest at Marquette. Serious and humorous declaimers competed with students from various high schools throughout the state. . . . Another of the interscholastic contests was one in oratory at Mayville. . . . Two of the school's outstanding speakers, James Neilson in oratory and Jean Searle in extemporaneous speaking, represented Washington in the state contest. . . . Both the school and the speakers benefit through such active participation.

"Ready, fellows? Curtain's going up." One at the ropes, another at the lights, wardrobe mistresses running back and forth with hands full of properties. . . . A busy life, indeed, is the one led by every stage-crew member. . . . Membership on the stage crew is a position relatively in the background of school life yet one of undeniable importance. . . . Each school dramatic function is vitally dependent upon the stage crew for scenery, properties, and general assistance. . . . All the settings for the "Chimes of Normandy" and "Pride and Prejudice," as well as those for auditorium plays and skits, were designed and constructed by these boys. . . . In stage crew members, guest speakers find willing assistants for the arrangement of microphones and exhibits. . . . Under the management of Bud Kreutzinger, the crew worked efficiently and enjoyably. This organization met apart from its regular duties; for, on alternating Friday nights, one member had the crew over for supper. Thus, a greater bond between the home and school was established. . . . As an excellent opportunity for student service combined with fun and learning, the stage crew ranks high among extra-curricular activities.

The glow of the footlights, a hushed expectancy—and the curtains parted on the first act of the senior play "Pride and Prejudice," on the evenings of April 26 and 27. After a year of careful coaching and dramatic experience in workshop plays, the senior players once again presented a prize production, a delightful three-act farce on old English customs. . . . A lesson in the art of applying makeup opened the fall term. Three tableaux depicting the first Thanksgiving, home life, and the landing of the pilgrims, were presented before the school at Thanksgiving. It is quite customary for the Washington thespians to present the Christmas program. This year they enacted a drama entitled "The Old Candlemaker of St. John's." . . . Among the workshop productions were two original plays: "For Better or for Worse" by Elizabeth de Gelleke and Rosemary Rueth; and "College Rumpus or Campus" by Audrey Kalweit. . . . The special feature of the Shakespearean cuttings was Miss Ruth Benz's portrayal of the role of Lady Macbeth in the sleep-walking scene. Miss Benz's superb performance was a challenge to future dramatists.

Three times this year the A Capella choir treated the school to its entertainment. There were two mornings when their selections constituted the entire program. The first was the initial program of the fall semester. . . . At Easter time they presented their second concert, composed mostly of appropriate Easter music. On the stage, they were a colorful group arrayed in their striking purple and gold robes. Both times, whatever accompaniment they had was offered by Doris Lemm. . . . Most prominent among their year's activities was the Operetta, The Chimes of Normandy. A quaint scene in a village of Normandy, and a cast of eighty-five in gay peasant costuming combined to make a glorious setting of color. George Main had the leading role as Henri. Marion Kaap, who played opposite him, was the charming Germaine. Supporting them in other leads were Eleanor Brick, William Kermott, George Cloos, Anson Werk, Avis Hesselback, and Olivejean Sell. Delightful also, was the chorus work. . . . From the very beginning to the last curtain call, all the Washington students and the general public who attended felt that it was one of the best evening's entertainment that they had had in a long time. May next year's work be as successful!

Physics Club Reveals Scientific Aspect of Every-Day Life

Students who are interested in the scientific aspect of every-day life make the Physics Club their "supplementary text." . . . Throughout the past year interesting field trips have been taken and outstanding lecturers presented. . . . The purification of the city's water supply was an important problem last fall; so members inspected the city filtration plant on a lectured tour. At a previous meeting Mr. J. E. Kerslake, plant superintendent, had discussed filtration and its aims. . . . One meeting was devoted to the discussion of Diesel engines, by Mr. Paul G. Miller. . . . At the beginning of the year, members viewed four films: "Invisible Secrets," "Magnetism and Electrons," Invisible Forces," and "Copper." . . . One of their field trips took them to a local piano company to witness a demonstration of the Novachord and electric organ. At a previous meeting Mr. Stuart Randall had discussed these instruments. . . . Any physics student gains much through his membership in the Physics Club.

The Nature Study Club has completed another year of fascinating and educational programs for the benefit of its members. To carry out their aim, to interest more students in nature, the club has sponsored numerous hikes in the great out-of-doors. They made trips to the Kettle Moraine Park, the Filtration Plant, Grant Park, the fish hatchery at Delafield, the Observatory of the Milwaukee Astronomical Society near Waukesha County, and the new building of the Wisconsin Humane Society. They also visited the workrooms of the Milwaukee Public Museum and, to climax the year, hiked to a cottage at Pewaukee Lake. In addition to travelling around our fair state, the club held many indoor meetings. Some of the subjects were: bird life, sea shells, insects, reptiles, forest conservation, and forest fire prevention. Mr. Walter Dethloff, Superintendent of the Humane Society, addressed the club at one meeting. Sounds intriguing, doesn't it?

To those students especially interested in science, the Chemistry Club provides a wealth of information. The meetings are of such a varied nature that every interest is satisfied. Not only do members hear lectures, see films, and actually perform experiments; but they take field trips to business organizations, interesting because of their chemical operations. During the past year trips were made to an ice company, paint and glass factory, and a plating company. . . . One of the meeting high lights was Mr. Hasso Pestalozzi's lecture on the analysis of vinegar. At other meetings, Mr. Eugene Brandt demonstrated spectacular chemical changes; Mr. Joseph Boriff discussed personal effects of science; and Don Pahlow presented electrical demonstrations. . . . Through the courtesy of a large manufacturing company, members were privileged to view a four-wheel, technicolor, narrated film entitled "Steel—Man's Servant." Other interesting films dealt with the manufacture of cement and the mining of nickel. . . . The Chemistry Club is a "must join" on the program of the future scientist.

Many times throughout the past year, a lively group of students, each supplied with "lunch, camera, and care fare," gathered before Wcshington's north entrance at nine o'clock on a Staurday morning. Of course, it was a Camera Club hike. Several were held each semester. . . . Another of the club's important functions that gained school-wide attention was the displays of prize-winning photographs. One outstanding exhibit was composed of prints from fifteen foreign countries and the United States. . . . Outside speakers discussed various phases of photography at the club's bi-weekly meetings. . . . Gaining recognition wherever they went, the prints of some members were entered in both the All-Milwaukee High School Salon and the National High School Salon. . . .In addition to school meetings and hikes, the club maintained a darkroom where members developed their own films. . . . Hikes, displays of prints, lectures, contests—all are included in a Camera Club membership.

Welcoming all Latin students or ex-Romans, the Latin Club serves a two-fold purpose. It encourages its members to acquire a better knowledge of this ancient language and the derivatives used in our own speech, and it affords a good hour of healthful recreation after the class sessions. Programs are in the hands of one officer each meeting, who, with Mr. H. Gudwin Johnson, arranges the gatherings and then appoints a selected group of ten members to carry out the specific duties under his supervision. Community singing, vocal-solo selections, talks and discussions, original skits, instrumental numbers, and business sessions compose many of the Tuesday-night meetings. . . . One evening Miss Lorna Murphy spoke on the Roman ruins of Southern France and Spain, while Mrs. Alma Boundey gave a talk on Romain ruins in Britain. An interesting hour for Latin Students!

A delightful supplement to the classwork of the Spanish classes is the Spanish Club. There, at bi-weekly meetings, combining serious study with pleasure, Washington's Espanoles entertain one another with musical selections and community singing, question-and-answer quizzes, and Spanish word-building contests. The theme is always some phase of Spanish life, literature, customs, or history. As a means of gaining greater fluency in speaking the language, humorous plays were presented; and Helen Schmidt's talk on her trip through Mexico was a pleasant way of learning much of value about that country. Outstanding among the activities of the first semester was a game mixer held at the first meeting. Members who think back through the two semesters, which were led by Jo Ann Weborg and Gerald Lacher respectively, recall the many good times they had at the Spanish Club.

After a year's absence from the school's list of extra-curricular activities, the German Club was reorganized by Mr. Waldemar Groth. . . . Here the "ja wohl's" and the "sehr schoen's" received additional practice, thus accomplishing the primary purpose of the club, actual experience in the use of the language. . . . Meeting programs provided a broad foundation for the appreciation of German culture, with their discussions of German literature, art, science, and music. Even modern German youth garnered its share of the spotlight. . . . Nor was the dramatic side of the programs neglected. At Christmas time, "Haensel und Gretel am Weihnachtsabend" was presented. Another play, "Einer Muss Heiraten," was given in the spring. . . . The social functions of the club were equally emphasized. Besides having a mixer in January and a picnic in June, the members took part in the International Mixer sponsored by all the language clubs.. . . The programs are so interesting and informative that a German student can't afford to miss them.

Parlez-vous francais? If you do speak French, by all means join in the fun at the French Club. For the past year plays, speakers, humorous skits, numerous contests of all types and description, singing, dancing, and refreshments at the mixers have high-lighted the bi-weekly meetings of Le Cercle. During the fall term a series of talks on the different provinces of France were presented by various club members. These discussions included some of the habits and customs of the particular French districts; mainly, Picardy, Touraine, Orleans, Normandy, and the regions around Paris. A playlet "La Surpriese d' Isidore" or "Isadore's Surprise" was enacted in two parts at two successive meetings. The January graduates entertained the club with a humorous melodrama "Suzette and Hero" on January 3. An original skit "An Easter Episode in France" by Bette Schnoll was presented on March 13. For participation in programs and other services to the club, graduating seniors are awarded pins after attaining twenty points.

A chill autumn afternoon — football players fighting for added inches — cheers loud and enthusiastic. And then the half and the entrance of the band. It is a scene long recorded in the memory of every spectator. . . . The members of the marching band, seventy-two strong, were selected through tryouts from the concert band. During the football season, they drilled semi-weekly at either Washington or Sherman Park or on the athletic field. The Saturday games showed conclusive evidence of their ability and diligence. . . . Credit for their fine performance is largely due to the capable leadership of the music director, Mr. Robert Erdman, and the student directing by the drum majors, Bertram Block and Robert Androski. . . . You know it's said in reference to soldiers that their buttons always shine. Have you noticed those of the band?

Many a foot has yearned to tap an enthusiastic accompaniment during a performance of the concert band. . . . The past school year has been brightened through various band programs. At auditorium sessions, once during the fall term and twice during the spring semester, the school enjoyed the music rendered by that musical organization. . . . A portion of the Spring Concert last May was devoted to the band. Here parents and friends, as well as students, were privileged to witness a performance. . . . The band also participated in the Eastern Wisconsin Tournament of the State Music Association, where they made a fine record. . . . In addition to concert appearances, parts of the band played in ensembles, and individuals played solos for school organizations and for community affairs at various times during the past year. . . . The school is indeed proud of the recognition awarded the concert band.

To music lovers the orchestra is the source of endless entertainment, but even those not musically inclined are charmed by the melodious orchestral numbers. So were the students thrilled at the beautiful accompaniment of the orchestra at the operetta. An Open House program in the fall, and one auditorium program each semester comprised the other contributions to the student body. . . . Inviting all the school children of the district, the orchestra presented an appreciation concert. It certainly was a novelty to see the little tots anxiously waiting entrance for it. . . . The Spring Concert came May 24, and with it came fine school cooperation and appreciation. The orchestra also participated in the Eastern Wisconsin Tournament. . . . In addition to daily practice and orchestral programs and contests, twenty-two members played at the 31st Street School, and several small groups furnished music for various social functions.

"An opportunity that comes once in a life time," said Mr. Robert Erdman, when speaking of the N. B. C. International Broadcast. Washington's Symphony Orchestra was one of the three local organizations to represent Milwaukee to the nation on the Music and Youth Broadcast. This hook-up was connected with 110 N. B. C. stations, including short wave to foreign countries. The first number was the "Entrance of Montezuma" by Hadley, an American composer, followed by the "Air of G. D. Major Suite" by Bach. Recordings were also made for a permanent record. Seventy-five members were selected by Mr. Erdman to participate in this concert. Many hours of extensive rehearsals were devoted to the concert, but the orchestra felt their efforts well repaid. . . . For the afternoon of July 3, the stringed orchestra was selected to play at the Vocational School before a session of the Department of Secondary Teachers of the National Education Association.

In the spring and fall the tennis courts of nearby parks were frequented by the racket enthusiasts of our Washington Tennis Club as they spent hours in practicing and playing their matches. The one-hundred-and-twenty members found great pleasure in playing their favorite game for the mere enjoyment and entered in the tournaments just for the fun of the sport and the friendly competition. . . . Neil Mueller, president for both the spring and fall terms, was also captain of the team which was composed of ten members instead of the usual seven. . . . There are plans for a mixer at the close of the year as a gay climax to the activities of the two terms. . . . Memories of the good times they had getting together at school and meeting at the courts linger as Washington's racket wielders look forward to next fall's matches.

On a rolling, well-trimmed green in almost any weather, the Washington Divot team can be spotted, practicing the putt and drive, striving for a good record. At the first match, our team competed against the strong South Division golfers; and despite some handicaps and bad breaks, the final score proved Washington ahead by 31 points. Coach McCutcheon and his returning letter-men trained the "rookies" for general form and taught many angles of this grand sport . . . Jack Kearns and Glen Starke were the lads upon whom the coach laid most of his plans and aspirations. Each lived up to his fine early spring form and finished with low totals. . . . Now, don't get the idea the girls weren't well represented. Peggy Aik and Eleanor Be Vier also were prominent among the efficient putters. . . . Wielding the gavel at the meetings was Glen Starke. His fellow officers included Jack Kearns, vice president; Peggy Aik, secretary; and Eleanor Be Vier, Student Council Representative. Wouldn't the officers themselves make a fine foursome!

Athletic Associations Promote Extra-Curricular Athletics

Outstanding in the field of athletics are the Boys' and Girls' Athletic associations, which promote an extra-curricular interest in sports. Although functioning independently of the various varsity teams, the athletic associations encourage game attendance and act in co-operation with the teams. . . . The Boys' Athletic Association sponsors the annual all-school athletic dinner, where outstanding members of the varsity football squad are honored and various awards presented. . . . The Girls' Athletic Association holds its annual banquet in the spring. Here the honor awards are made to the senior girls who have been oustanding members of the association. . . . Membership in either society provides free admittance to all sophomore and B-squad contests in football and track. This alone encourages membership because a regular charge is demanded of all non-members admitted to these events. . . . On Senior Honor and Farewell Day, the oustanding boy and girl athletes take their rightful place with the leaders in other school activities. With the engravement of their names on the school trophy, they leave behind them a permanent record of their achievements. . . Truly, these organizations serve well their purpose of promoting extra-curricular school athletics.

An organization for all girls is Washington's Girls' Club. Its three divisions — sophomore, junior, and senior for the girls in those respective years—each carries on its own separate activities. . . . This year at Easter time the peppy sophomore group made cloth toy animals, which were used in several ways for charitable purposes. In addition to this they had their traditional parties: a balloon dance, a picnic-lunch Thanksgiving dinner, and a tea dance. . . . Besides holding several meetings, the juniors enjoyed a birthday party. In conjunction with the seniors they heard Miss Elaine Aster speak on personality and held a Junior-Senior party. . . . The seniors presented a style show and in the spring gave a lovely party for their mothers. Again this year on each Farewell Day roses were given to the graduating seniors. . . . Concluding each semester, an Honor Day was held at which time all the girls who had maintained high scholarship and attained a certain number of service points in the club were given awards. . . . A Halloween masquerade, which included all the girls, highlighted the fall activities; and in May the annual Springtime, to which the girls invite their escorts, served to climax the year's work and good times.

The Student Council needs no introduction. As the sole administrative organization of the school, it acts as overseer of school life and aids both students and teachers, through its many standing and special committees. Of these, there are some twenty that serve in various ways, from checking auto registration to initiating the after-school dancing classes, which by the way make a hit! The council heartily cooperated with the Annual Milwaukee County Toy Drive last October, affording the less fortunate children the use of old dressed-up toys, which were repaired by the W. P. A. Workers. It was also a most successful drive in that it furnished incentive for unity on a school project. State, county, and city council associations are always well represented by the members. Hans Peterman, Constance Timme, (who by the way wields the gavel), and Miss Helen Green represented the student body at the Madison Council meeting last November. At the opening of the second semester, a gala St. Patrick's Day party was given to welcome all new representatives into the Council. Every one had great sport, especially watching the faculty critics enter into the fun.

Ushered in by the impressive candlelighting ceremony, new Home Economics members join one of the most active clubs in the school. The six rainbow candles, symbolizing the spirit of home economics, stand for the aims of the club. The red represents health; the orange, the home; the yellow, wisdom; the green, service;the blue, character; and the lavender, beauty. . . . A club with such inspiring and admirable aims is bound to go places. . . . The activities of the club were many and varied. Humanitarianly inclined, the club feted some of the under-privileged children of the Keenan Health Center at a Christmas party. . . . Other entertainments included a Valentine party, a pot-luck supper, and a Mother's Day tea. . . . At one of the meetings last fall, the serving of Syrian pastry and sandwiches was preceded by an address given by Mrs. Zahweh Totah on the habits and customs of her native country, Syria. . . . Ten club members attended the annual State Convention of Home Economics Clubs held here in Milwaukee. . . . For girls studying foods and clothing and for others interested in homemaking activities, the Home Economics Club provides a vital, interesting program.

"Sing and be happy!" "Life is a song!" Such are the mottoes of the melodious Music Club. Under the supervision of Mr. Fred G. Smith, the programs present various talents — such as singing, instrumental playing, whistling, and harmonizing. A song-writing contest provided the motif of one meeting; chord make-up also came into the discussion. Do you remember John Hoffman (he's a member) in the Senior skit playing the selection of "Satan Takes a Holiday" and his own interpretation of "My Prayer?" — How could you forget! Then there are the saxaphone contributions by Frances Bernstein and vocal selections from Marion Kaap, George Main, Gloria Bergs, Lillian Galau, and many others. An after-school buzz in Room 410 may generally indicate another Art Club meeting. Mr. Kendrick Bell reorganized the club last fall to stimulate a revival of interest in art and to give those with artistic interests a chance to develop their talents. Mrs. Helen Kriofske, successor to Mr. Bell, took over the management of the club in February. . . . The fall activities included a sketching trip to Juneau Park and an interesting discussion on the various phases of Indian art by Mr. Robert Ritzenthaler of the Milwaukee Public Museum Department of Anthropology. . . . Then there were absorbing contests in sketching, commercial art, and cartooning . . . Each member followed his own individual talent or special interest along the lines of craftwork, commercial art, sketching, or puppet making. . . . Happy, profitable hours are provided by membership in the Art Club.

Washington Ushers Augment School Functions by Their Services

Looking their best in trim uniforms, Washington's twelve ushers assisted throughout the year at various school functions. Headed by Alfred Ihlenfeld, the staff has served diligently, arriving early and leaving late in order that they might be on hand the entire evening for: Open House, Intersociety, the forensic contests, the operetta, the senior play, and the two graduations. This year for the first time the ushers also served at the basketball games. Courtesy, cheerfulness, and the utmost efficiency mark them as being most worthy of the prominent positions they hold in serving the public. Is it any wonder, then, that when we are greeted by these uniformed students and ushered to our seats, we gaze on them with pride?

Unassuming, yet always helpful and gracious, the infirmary monitors rendered valuable service throughout the year. . . . The best of care was assured to each patient by the careful selection of monitors. Only those girls who were outstanding in personality, character, neatness, and ability were accepted. . . . A preliminary two weeks' training course was given to each girl before she assumed her duties. Here she was drilled in the fundamentals of first aid and the procedure to be followed in admitting patients. . . . Bernice Duchrow was the student supervisor, heading a staff of eighteen. . . . Those planning a professional career in the field of medicine find much valuable experience in this training as an infirmary monitor.

Under the direction of Miss Norma Zartner, library attendants devote much time and effort to the efficient management of the main and the fiction libraries. Before and after school, monitors check incoming and outgoing books. During each period of the day, a student monitor helps to maintain quiet and answer questions. Library monitorship is a school position which demands true service. . . . The Lost-and-Found monitors serve the school by sorting and classifying all lost articles and seeking to locate the owners. More than one-hundred-and-fifty pens were turned in during the past year. These monitors also made the preliminary preparations necessary for the distribution of over twenty-five hundred locker keys. How's that for a record?

How could Mr. and Miss Washington manage without our Student Service: those students who sit on duty in the halls at Washington throughout the day, who work in the office, who occupy positions as advisement and cafeteria monitors, who serve in the study halls, and who in numerous other ways assist in the routine of the school? They are the ones who wear those large service pins with the school seal on a gold background. Selected for their conduct, dependability, scholastic average, and desire to be of use to the school, they represent an efficient staff of outstanding merit, ready to help at any and all times. Under capable management they are responsible for the smooth manner in which our school organization functions. Enthusiasm and enjoyment of their work more than compensate for whatever sacrifices they may have made in performing their assigned duties. They set a fine example for the rest of the student body.

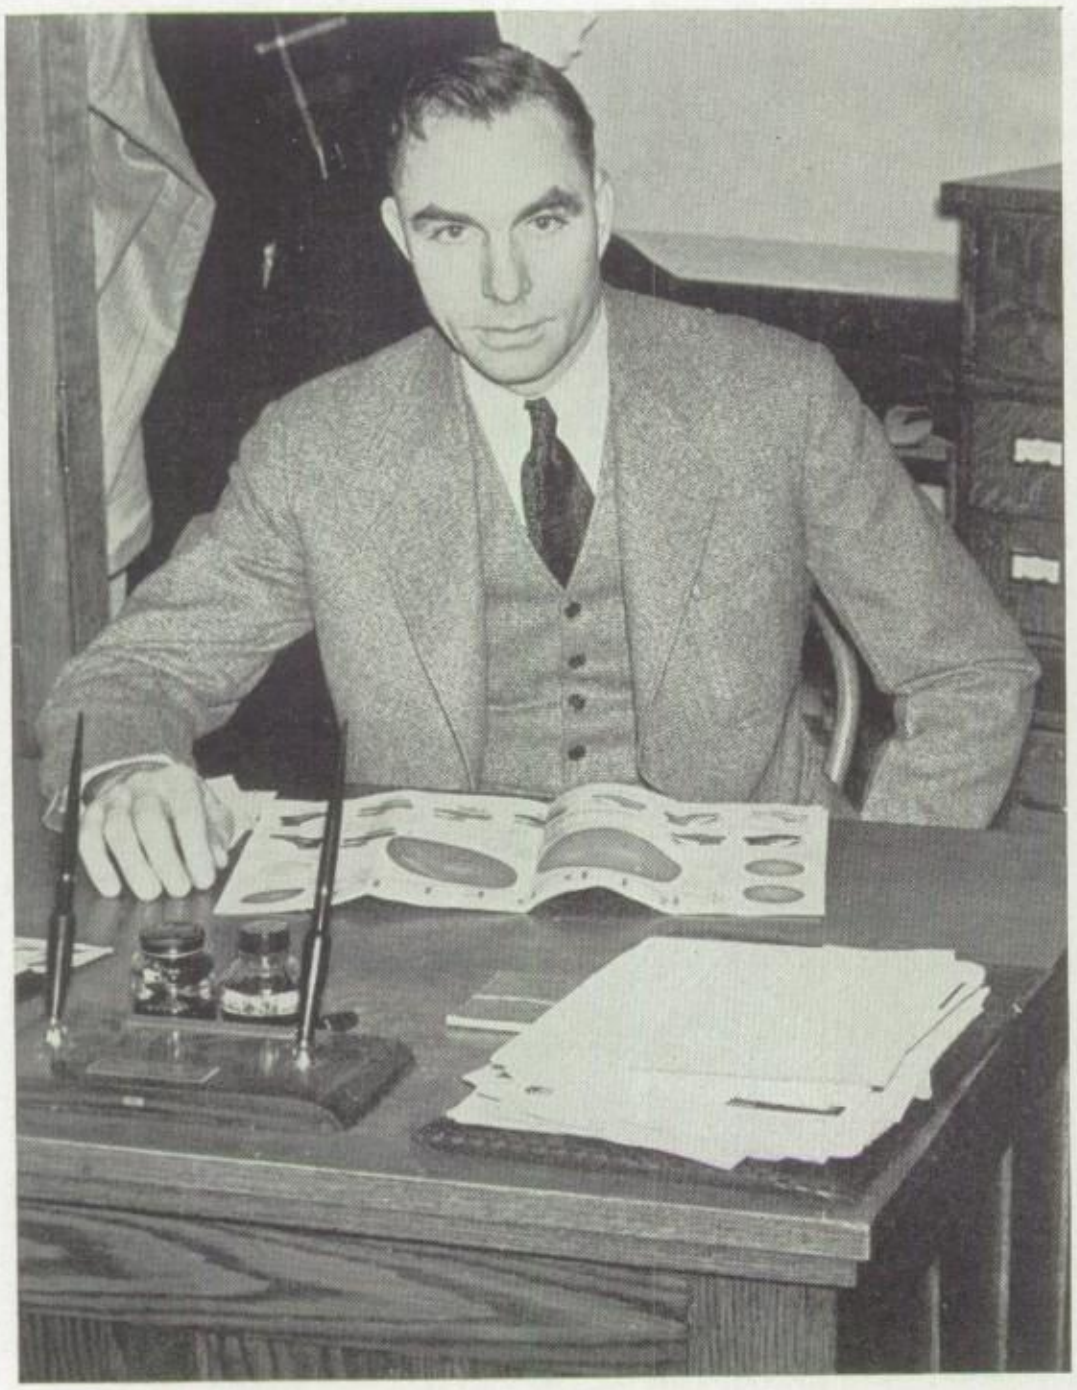
SPORTS

A SCHOOL without an athletic association is like picture without planned composition. Just as the last finishing touches hold the picture together, so do athletics hold the student body together. Since the aim of education is the preparation for living, athletics find their natural place. We still have with us the Greek ideal of a strong mind in a strong body, with our athletic field as the proving ground. For athletic results we no longer look merely for winning teams but, rather, for evidences of physical fitness and development of individual character. Participation in sports teaches citizenship and cooperation — traits fundamental in the molding of future America. Athletics are an important influence in our school life because they combine physical development with mental growth.



COACH BLACKBOURN

To those outside of Washington the name Coach Lisle Blackbourn has been symbolic of championship teams in basketball and football. Since he first took over the helm in 1925, "Liz" has consistently turned out fine teams. He has instilled in them his own boundless energy and love for the game.

However, to those of us who know him at school, Coach Blackbourn has seemed almost a personal friend. Through his ceaseless efforts he has managed to organize a widely diversified curricula of intramural sports, sports where not only the three-letter men have a place but sports in which every boy can participate. "Liz" has been a friend of every boy, and he has spent as much time on his gym classes as on his teams developing the boys into red-blooded Americans.

It is to this man, as fine a coach as you would expect to find anywhere, that we dedicate this sports section. Good luck, Coach Blackbourn!

Howard Boese was elected by his teammates to lead them in defense of their city football championship. Under his brilliant leadership the championship remained in our hands. Schroeder led his cross country team to a fairly successful year. Despite the lack of training facilities, the swimming team, captained by William Gumm, took advantage of what it could and pulled some surprises. The basketball team was captained by Pat Harder and lost only one game to retain its city title of the year before.

Captain Neil Mueller and his mates represented Washington in tennis with the same fine play that has kept Washington an outstanding name in the city race each year.

After the wrestling team won the first State meet, they immediately elected Earl Fenzl and Robert Raymond, honorary co-captains. Glenn Starke went through a season comparable to its fine showing in 1939. Smothering every opponent beneath an avalanche of scoring, the track squad led by Les Kalchik and Don Reiss has successfully retained its Waukesha Relay and City titles and is favored to retain the State title. Not to be left out are the cheerleaders, Eugene Engle, Marvin Abrams, and Ellen Euler and Lenore Lambert. Under their guidance, the school body has cheered their champions on to victory.

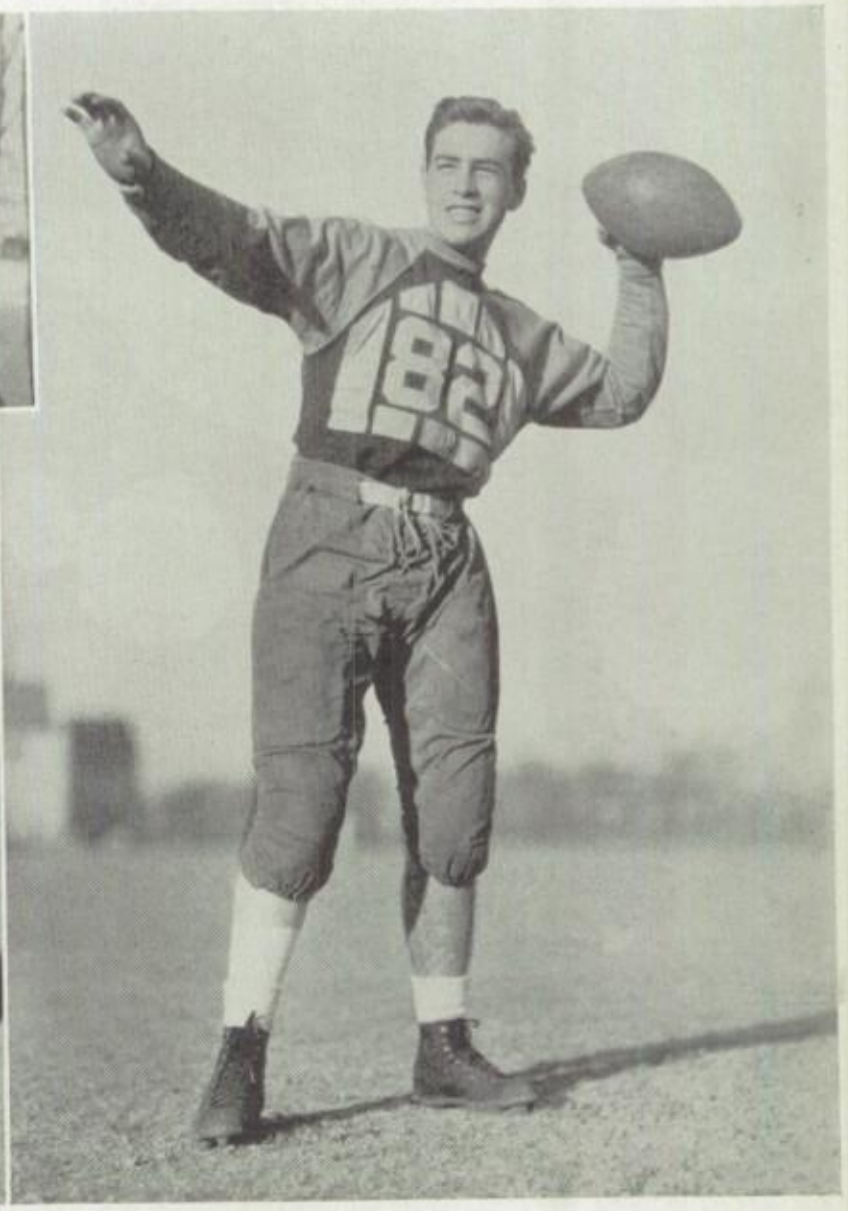
It's Good!



Captain Boese

Washington's football champions trimmed Wauwatosa 28-13 in the opening game of the 1939 season. Pat Harder, All-city fullback, scored 22 points on three touchdowns and four points-after-touchdown. Al Skat racked up the other six points. The victory was somewhat marred because Sam Holzman, first string guard, suffered a broken leg in the fourth quarter.

The power of the Purgolders proved too much for the West Allis Bulldogs. Led by Captain Howie Boese and Pat Harder, the locals scored twice in the opening minutes of play. Even the reserves, who played the second and fourth cantos, carried the fight to West Allis and scored a tally in the fourth period. The Tonian goal line was never seriously threatened. Most of the play took place in enemy territory. The final score was 26-0.

After being held during the first half, the Blackbourn crew unleashed a power attack that completely routed West, co-champion with Washington in 1938. The game, with the score of 0-0 at the half, ended in Washington's favor, 20-0. The scoring was divided up between Boese, Harder, and Skat, with Harder making two touchdowns and four points-after-touchdown for a total of 16 points.

Rufus King, new member of the city conference, nearly blasted the Tonian pennant hopes. In the closing minutes of play Pat Harder smashed through center for the winning tally making the final score 16-14 in favor of the locals. It was an uphill battle all the way in which the Purgold team came from behind a 14-0 score and pulled the game out of the fire. Harder scored all the points on two touchdowns, one conversion, and one field-goal.

"Pat" Gets Away Again

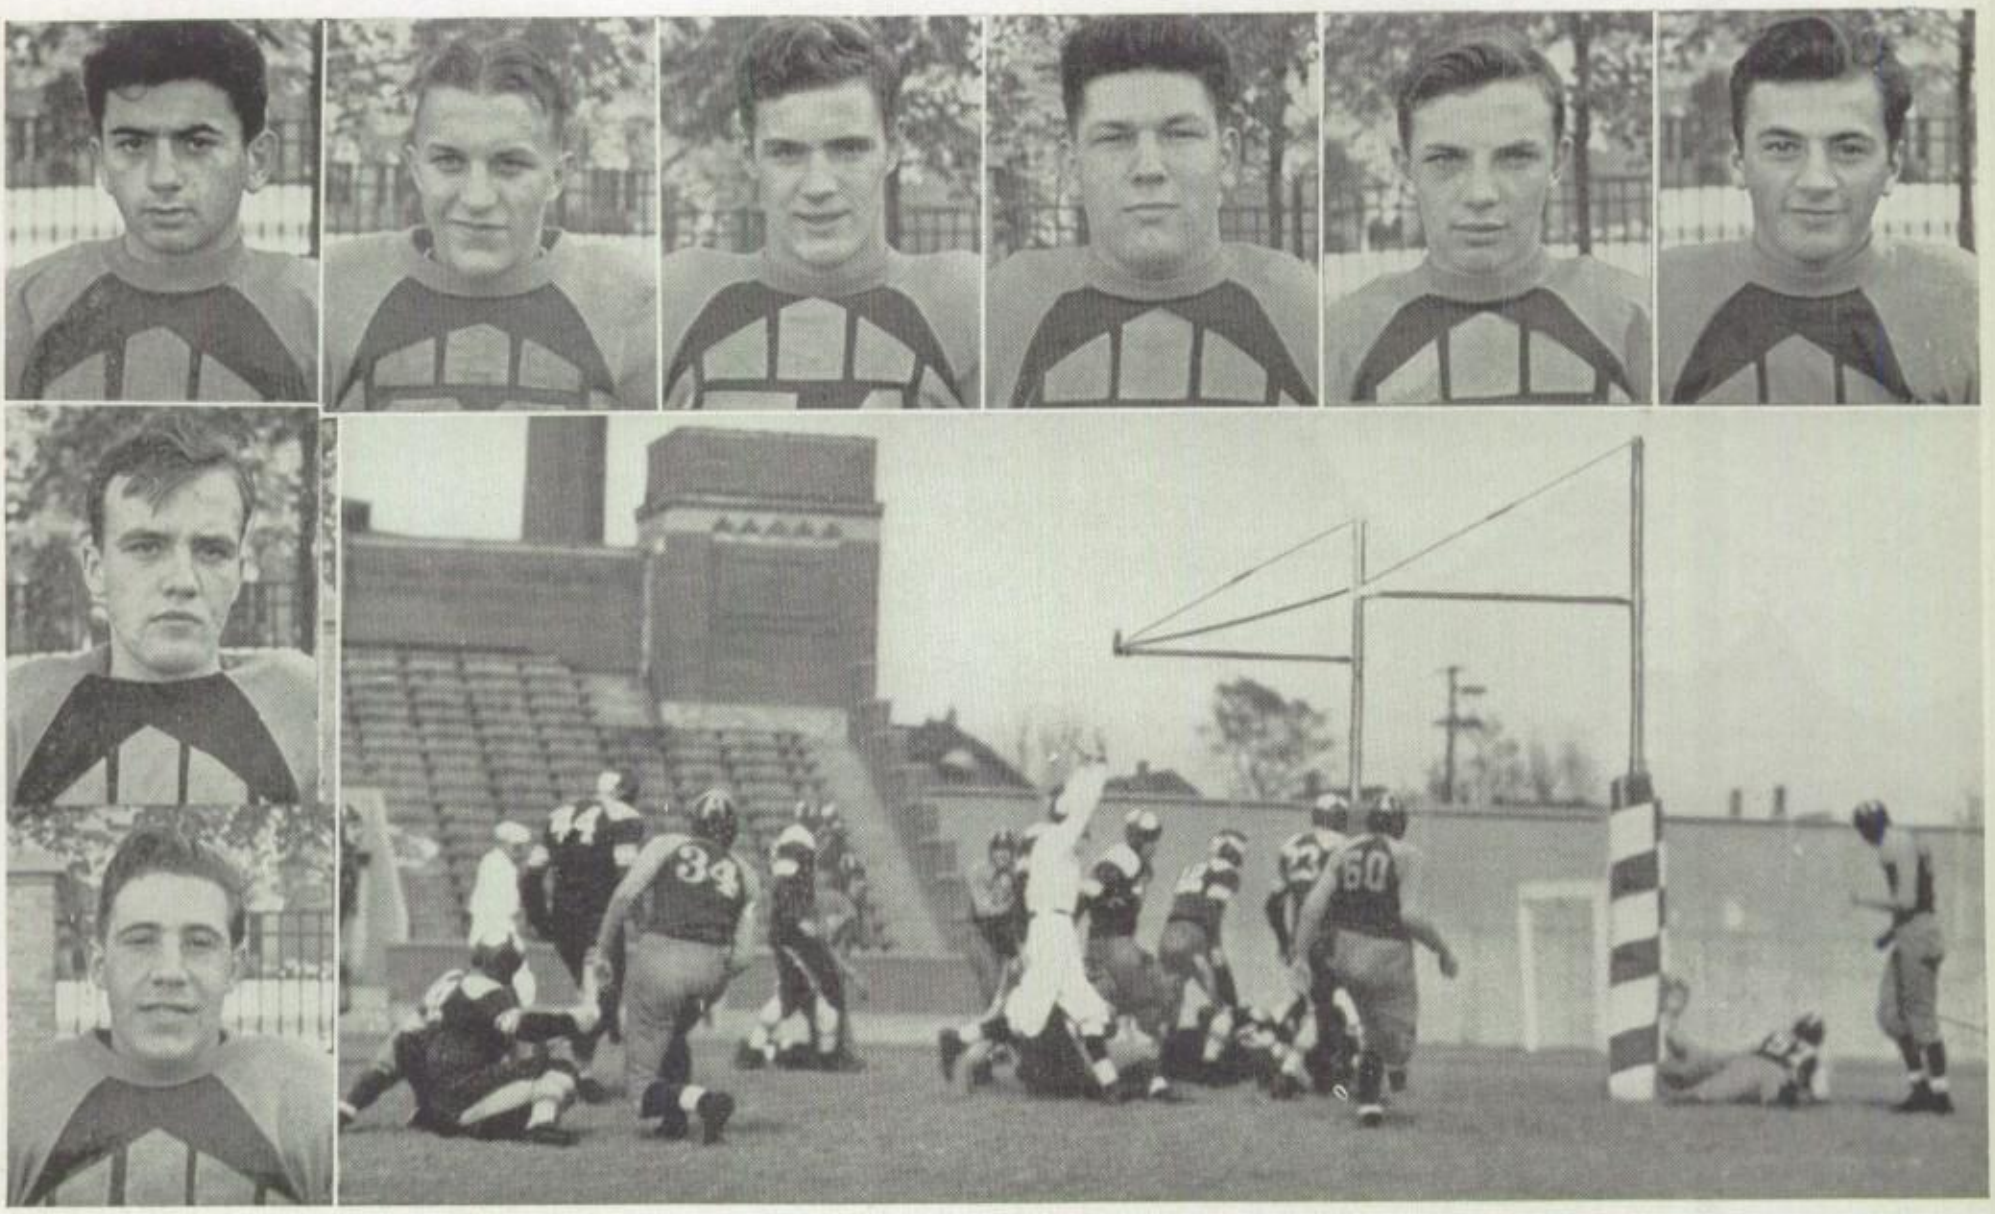
For the second straight week Pat Harder scored all the points as Washington romped over South, 16-0. Captain Boese's brilliant work on defense and exceptional offensive blocking were highlights of the game. Al Skat's long-range punting kept the Cardinals deep in their own territory. A hard-charging line squelched many enemy plays before they started. This victory gave the locals a tie with North for first place in the conference standings.

Playing North Division before a crowd of 10,000, the Tonian pigskinners struck hard in the first seven minutes of play to score 14 points. The Northsiders never recovered from the terrific onslaught. Boese's broken-field running and Harder's plunging proved the deciding factors. The Sherman Blvd. aggregation capitalized on all breaks and played an alert, wide-awake game. The final score was 20-7. The win gave Washington the undisputed lead in the conference standings with a record of four wins and no defeats.

Custer proved to be no match for Blackbourn's squad and was scalped to the tune of 27-0. The Redmen were outplayed from beginning to end. The Purple-and-Gold capitalized on all breaks and made some of their own. The offensive blocking of Lucht and Boese, Skat's kicking, and Harder's running were features of the contest.

Washington High School gained the undisputed championship by trouncing East 31-0. East was outplayed throughout the game. The locals garnered 11 first downs to three by East and gained 173 yards from scrimmage against the 48 yards gained by the Orange. When the closing gun sounded, Washington had an undefeated season and its third championship in as many years.



He's Over!

Four Washington players made the All-city eleven chosen by the coaches. Captain Howard Boese, a fine blocker, sweet defensive player, and a fast running back, won 8 of 10 votes. It was his leadership that held the Purgolders together. Pat Harder was a unanimous choice for fullback for the second straight year. Les Kalchik received 9 of 10 votes for his tackle position. Del Holman was thought by the coaches to be as good a guard as the Conference had seen in several years.

Captain Howie Boese is the first man in Tonian history to be a letter winner in three championship football teams. He played quarterback as a soph and right half as a junior and senior.

For the second straight year Pat Harder led the Conference in scoring. This year he broke the old record of 96 points by scoring 108.

In the last three years the Purgolders have won 23 games and lost but one. They have scored 554 points with only 79 being tallied against them. This means an average of 23 points to 3 points per game. Two of the last three years saw our boys undefeated.

This year's championship makes a total of five won under the Purple and Gold flag.

Kenneth Kraemer, end; Kenneth Unrath, tackle; Julius Bensick, guard; and Al Skat, back, received honorable mention when the All-city team was chosen.

Coach Lisle Blackbourn was honored at a banquet given in honor of his outstanding coaching record while at Washington in the past 15 years. This dinner was sponsored by a committee consisting of Lawrence College alumni in co-operation with representatives of Washington High and alumni and prominent members of the local high school sporting world.

THE KICKOFF

Hold That Line

The local Jarvies steamrolled over a hapless West Milwaukee eleven to the tune of 40-0 in the opening game at West Milwaukee. Continuing their winning ways, the locals soundly shellacked a ragged West Allis 11, 33-0. Outstanding performances were turned in by Becker, Trunk, and Terhorst. The razzle dazzle play and inexperience against a tricky backfield cost the Jarvies their first loss at the hands of a strong Wauwatosa team, 6-0.

In a thrilling game the Jarvies won their fourth straight game from a smart, driving Boilermaker team 18-14. Dreyer and Pokrass were outstanding. Showing power and speed the locals soundly trounced a hapless Lincoln B aggregation 33-6. Pokrass led the scoring with 12 points. Capitalizing on the "breaks", the Hechtmen downed a strong West squad, on the home campus, by a score of 21-7. The play of Pokrass, Dreyer, Jensen, Fenzl, Toth, Stick, Wynn, Huppert, and O'Connel helped the Jarvies to close a highly successful season with five wins against one defeat.

Too much power and too much speed of a big line and a fast backfield defeated a scrappy Soph brigade 12-6 in the '39 opener on the home campus.

Bouncing back after defeat, the Washington yearling squad defeated a favored Wauwatosa eleven 12-6. Crisp blocking, clean tackling and hard running contributed to the team's initial success.

Playing in fog, the Washington sophomore battalion battled their way to a well-earned 7-0 victory over a tough West Milwaukee. Jerry Lutz's 50-yard run proved to be the winning marker. The Sophs ended their highly satisfactory season with a record of two wins and one defeat. The work of Lutz, Brown, Gohlke, Doubek, Block, Cox, and Kendall helped to account for the Purgolders' success.

CROSS COUNTRY

Facing a superior team, which captured the first six places, the Washington thin-clads dropped their initial meet to the state and suburban champs, South Milwaukee. The locals lost 49-15.

A highly touted West Allis contingent administered defeat to the local hill-dashers on a soggy State Fair grounds 40-17.

Adding the 17 straight victory to Bay View's list and dropping their third straight dual meet, the locals went down fighting, 36-21. The first two positions were captured by the Purgolder's ancient rivals.

After dropping three, the locals snared their first victory at the expense of a hitherto undefeated Lincoln squad, 24-37. The race was held on the two and two-tenths mile Washington park course.

In the first of three big meets the local hill-dashers captured the sixth bert at the State cross country duel at Janesville. Eannelli was 14th amongst the medal winners.

Upsetting the dope, a spirited Washington team nosed out a highly touted Bay View contingent for second-place berth in the annual City Meet. The contest was held on the Mitchell Park course.

Hampered by the loss of two stellar trotters, the Washington locals nevertheless copped the seventh place in the State Meet. This closed a season of one victory in four dual meets and a sixth, seventh, and second in three big meets.

CROSS COUNTRY B SQUAD

Copping their initial win in their initial start, the local B-squad trimmed the West Allis suburban trotters 27-34. The team was led by Mayer, 13:40.

The locals encountered a strong B-squad at Bay View and lost 34-19. Fortlage, the first Purgolder to cross the line, was clocked at 7:49.

Closing a successful season of two wins and one defeat the local B-thinclads took the King main squad to camp 28-33.

Promising material for next year are Mayer, Eimermann, Wendt, and Becker.

After losing to the strong team of Washington Park High School of Racine, 29-5, Coach John A. Power's wrestlers came back to pin West Milwaukee's squad 24-15 in the local gym. However, the Purgolders met a stone wall in a return match with the Suburbans losing 15-18 on the latter's mat.

Victors in ten of eleven events, Washington's grunters overpowered South Division's grunters by a 40-5 score in the local gym.

Losing six out of nine bouts, the Purple grappling squad dropped a 11-19 decision to the strong Washington Park High School of Racine in the Racine gym.

Overwhelming their up-state rivals in six out of nine matches, the local wrestlers defeated Neenah High School 24½ to 9½.

Coach Power's grapplers also took the measure of Lincoln and South in other encounters.

The outstanding win of the locals was the first State Title in the State Wrestling tournament held at Appleton. Washington overwhelmed all competitors, its closest rival being five points behind. Seven grapplers of the nine who made the trip entered the semifinals.

State championships were won by R. Kuster, L. Oberly, and R. Wuerch in the 115, 125, and 145 pound classes respectively.

WRESTLING: K. Persion—145; E. Arndt—155; D. Holman—165; E. Riesing—135, E. Graef—125; D. McKay—105; E. Dobretzberger—95.

Ten wrestlers were crowned champions in the finals of Washington's sixteenth annual wrestling tournament. A capacity crowd filled the gymnasium to watch these championship bouts. The gate receipts were used to send our wrestling team to the State meet. Erwin Dobretzberger outscored his opponent in the 95 lb. class. In the 105 lb. bracket, Don Makay ended on top; Edward Kelly was the victor in the 115 lb. class; Erwin Graef was crowned in the 125 lb. section; and Kenneth Persion won in the 145 lb. class. In one of the most evenly fought matches of the tourney, Ed Reising outpointed his rival in the 135 lb. bracket. Edward Arndt pinned his rival in 45 seconds to win in the 155 lb. weight. Del Holman took the 165 lb. bout; Jim McGee, the 175 lb. division; and Robert Freund, the heavyweight group.

The finals of the second annual boxing tourney were held at the same time as the wrestling matches. Edward Reising easily won all three rounds of his bout in the 135 lb. class to retain the title he won the preceding year. He was one of the two boys who won crowns in both wrestling and boxing this year. Jim McGee was the other one. In the boxing match, he won over Sammy Holzman, who broke his leg in trying to land a punch. The other title-holders were Bob Gordon, 105 lb. class; Leroy Oberlieghtner, 115 lbs.; Adelbert Karbowski, 125 lbs.; Russ Wienstein, 145 lb. division, and Les Owens, 155 lbs.

Down the tank!

The local tankmen began their season by squeezing out a 38-33 victory over Marquette High. Bill Gumm and Jimmy Neilson scored 14 points apiece, Arie Staver scored 13½, Clayton Haberman contributed 12.

A strong North tank squad downed the Tonian splashers by 42-31 margin. Arie Staver, John Brasch, Jim Keating stood out for the locals.

The Derrwalt clan was shaded by East to the tune of 34-39. The meet was nip-and-tuck all the way with the outcome dependent on the last relay which East won.

Waukesha all but drowned the Washington tankers by a 59-14 count. John Brasch contributed the only first place to the local cause.

The Tonian splashers garnered fourth position at the Little City meet. Their total of 25 points was made by two firsts, a second, two fourths, and a fifth.

The Purgold mermen bowed to a superior Wauwatosa team by a score of 10-63. Weakened by the loss of Jim Keating and Johnny Brasch, the locals scored a second and four thirds.

The Tonian finmen lost to Milwaukee University School by 24-39, to West Allis by 21-52, and to West Milwaukee 21-52.

The Derrwaldtmen ended their long losing streak by defeating Pulaski 40-32. At the State meet, the local squad failed to place. The preliminaries saw all the Washingtonians eliminated.

By annexing two thirds and two fourths, Derrwaldt's splashers scored 15 points and took fifth place in the City Swimming meet.

John Brasch, Wilbert Gumm, James Keating, James Neilson, Harry Pollay, William Pohle, and Arie Staver were awarded major letters.

Opening the '39-'40 swim seasons, the locals were submerged 30-6 by a strong Tosa fin brigade at the enemy tank.

Too much all-around-swimming spelled the second straight defeat for the jarvies at the hands of Tech 21-46.

In a thrilling finish the locals nosed out the West Allis splashers 10-9 for the initial win of the season. The results were in doubt up to the last event.

Closing a season of three losses and one win, the B-squad dropped the finale to Waukesha 22-41.

Outstanding amongst the local finmen were Tom Hawkins, Bob Wagner, Demosthenes Stauer, George Marthen, and Tom Dally. With a little more experience and training, they should be a valuable addition to the A-squad next season.

Make it good again!

Washington High School's city champions started off on the right foot by taking the first basketball game of the season from West Allis by a 34-16 score. Howie Boese and Orv Ebert scored 10 points apiece to lead the attack.

The following week the Purgolders invaded Wauwatosa and outscored the Red Raiders by a 24 to 21 count.

In the opening battle of their defense of their city title, the Tonians downed a stubborn West Division squad to the tune of 22-16.

The Blackbournmen edged out a stubborn Rufus King squad by a three point margin. The score was 30-27. Howie Boese led the local scoring with 16 points, three points in the last 40 seconds to provide the margin of victory.

Led by high-scoring Boese with 17 points, the local bucket brigade whipped a strong East Division team by a 39-31 count.

The Washington High School hardwooders romped off to their fourth consecutive muny victory by smashing Custer 37-17. This win slipped the Purgolders into undisputed first place in the city standings. Held to a 4-4 count the first quarter, the count soon jumped to a 17-7 half-time mark and a 27-11 third period mark. Harder scored 12 points to lead the local attack. He was followed by Boese and McGee with nine and six points respectively.

Lincoln High School menaced the Tonian's undefeated record by leading at half time 15-12. However, the ever dependable Boese scored nine points in the last quarter to enable the local quintet to come out on top by a 36-31 count. Boese scored a total of 16 points to lead the local attack.

The local hardwooders put on a last desperate rally and narrowly avoided defeat at the hands of South. The final count was 33 to 29 in favor of the Blackbourn crew. Al Skat, dependable guard, led the scoring with a lucky 13 point total.

The Purgold hoopsters ran up a 10 point lead at half time and held it till the final gun to down Bay View 47-37. Howie Boese led the local attack with 13 points.

Led by Captain Pat Harder, the local hardwooders stopped a strong North quintet by a 33-23 count. Harder scored 14 points and McGee scored seven. Coach Blackbourn emptied the bench in this tilt giving every member of the team a chance to play.

The Purgold cagers cinched at least a tie for the crown by taking their ninth straight muny win from Juneau by a 43-26 score. Al Skat, playing his usual faultless floor game, scored 16 points to lead the attack. He was followed by McGee with 10 points and Harder with eight.

The Purples tipped Pulaski 21-15 to nab the untied title. The locals started slow and were behind 12-11 at the half. Pat Harder kept the Tonians in the fray for two and a half periods before being disqualified. He scored 13 of 15 points before leaving the game. The rest of the team perked up and managed to hold their lead till the end of the game.

Tech marred the Tonian 17 game winning streak by ekeing out a 26-22 victory. Capitalizing on the advantage offered by its narrow home gym, the Boilermakers jumped to an early lead and then were never headed.

Al Skat, stellar guard, and Howie Boese, forward, were chosen on the all city team. Skat, a varsity man for three years, was chosen for his outstanding floor play and his smooth ball handling. He led the Tonian scorers with 101 points and took fifth place in the city scoring race. Boese couldn't be left off the dream team just because of mid-year graduation. He saved many a thriller with his left-handed hook shots in the closing minutes. He scored 80 points before graduating which left him in eighth place in individual scoring.

Milton Becker, Howard Boese, Orville Ebert, Kenneth Ebmeir, Marlin Harder, Howard Helmle, James McGee, and Al Skat received major awards.

Winding up the first semester's schedule with victories over Wauwatosa, West Allis, Rufus King, West, and East, while losing only to East, Washington's second squad hardwooders boast a record of five wins and one loss.

For the second time this season, Washington's jarvies cagers lost to the West B team by a count of 37 to 23 in the Redmen's gym.

Avenging a previous defeat at the hands of the locals, Rufus King's B squad outscored the local quint to win by a 26 to 20 score in the local gym.

Completing the season with a better than 500 percentage, the Purgold B team lost their last game of the season by a score of 30 to 22 to Custer's hoopsters.

The Tonian jarvies finished their season with a record of six wins and four losses. The first semester proved much more successful when the Purple and Gold squad, winning five out of six games, with an almost entire new team, lost three out of four in the last semester.

Outstanding among the players were Sands, Helmle, Beck, Scholbe, and Magnus.

Due to inexperience the Tonian gymnastic squad placed ninth in the city freshman-sophomore gym contest April 9 at Pulaski High. The Tonians amassed a total of 445.5 points, the leader bogged the top position with 717.5.

Coach Blackbourn's green but determined entries failed to place in the individual rankings. The squad was composed of John Harryman, Myron Budnick, Dan Richards, Bob Hennrich, Walter Giaze, Glen Radder, Theodore Bednar, and Carl Harris.

The meet climaxed a session of strenuous practice on the parallel bars, rings, horizontal bars, buck, horse, and mats.

The entries were judged on approach, poise, and form.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

Championships in the intramural league tourney were claimed by Mr. Rollin Gettle's VI squad, Mr. John McCutcheon's semester V team, Mr. Lauren Sprague's Semester IV team and Mr. Carl Gaenssle's III quintet.

Surviving the semifinals, Mr. Gettle's squad smothered Mr. McCutcheon's team 19-6. George Jensen was high scorer with eight points followed by John Hoffman and Earl Hurwitz with four each.

Mr. Gaenssle's team upset the dope by defeating Mr. Sprague's bigger team 20-15. James Walt and Robert Koch were high scorers with eight points apiece, and Arthur Dorst was second with seven points.

In the prelims, Mr. Gettle's squad nosed out Mr. Joseph Boriff's group 13-12 in a thriller. Mr. McCutcheon's group tripped Mr. Eldon Schneller's five 17-14. Mr. Sprague's clan defeated Mr. Byron Derrwaldt's cagers 15-14. Mr. Gaenssle's group knocked off Mr. James Schwalbach's team to the tune of 34-10.

In the finals played in the school gym at 3:30 January 11, the favorites, the Gettlemen composed of George Jensen, Bob Raymond, Earl Hurwitz, Art Brazy, Don Brown, and Earl Fenzl, defeated Mr. Gaenssle's five, made up of Bob Labelle, Arthur Dorst, James Walt, Bill Finley, Paul Ginsberg, and Jim Brooks.

The games were played after school and Saturday mornings in the boys' gym under the supervision of Coach Blackbourn.

The Purgold golfers ran up a 31 stroke lead to defeat South 186-217. Jack Kearns led the locals with a 41. He was followed in order by Glenn Starke, Earl Fenzl, and Don Millar.

Led by Jack Kearns and Captain Glenn Starke, the local divot-diggers trounced Rufus King by 177 to 197 score. Kearns and Starke both turned in 42's. They were followed by Fenzl with a 45 tally and Millar with a 48.

Battling against bad playing conditions, the Tonian mashie wielders handed Lincoln a 182-205 defeat. Kearns led the scoring for the locals with a 44. Earl Fenzl garnered a 45 to take second spot. Starke contributed a 46 and Millar managed a 47. This victory was the third consecutive one for the McCutcheonmen.

The Purgolders shaded the strong East Division golfers by a 180-182 count. Jack Kearns shot a low 42. He was followed in order by Hanson with a 44, Starke with a 45, and Fenzl with a 49. This was the Tonians' fourth straight win.

With this record behind them, our boys went into their last matches with a strong possibility of retaining both their city and state championships gained in 1939.

TENNIS

The number one Purgold net squad downed West 3-1. Captain Neil Mueller, Bobby Stuckert, and Jim Walt won their singles matches. The doubles team of Lawrence Post and Ronnie Pullan dropped a close decision.

The Tonian number one raquetters claimed a decisive 4-0 victory from South. Captain Neil Mueller overcame his opponent, 6-4, 6-1. Bob Stuckert came from behind to win his match 6-2, 5-7, 6-4. Jimmy Walt had no trouble in subduing his opponent 6-1, 6-2 Lawrence Post and Art Frumkin took the last two sets to win their doubles match 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Pulaski fell before the blasting of the local netters by a 4-0 score. Mueller eased through to a 6-0, 6-1 victory. Stuckert and Walt did much the same, winning to the tune of 6-2, 6-0 and 6-3, 6-0 respectively. The doubles crew of Post-Frumkin lost their initial set and then won the last two to take the match 4-6, 6-2, 6-4. Continuing their streak of consecutive wins in the 1940 season, the Purgold number one courtmen defeated Juneau 3-0. Mueller pounded out a 7-5, 6-1 victory. Stuckert made short work of his match winning 6-2, 6-1. Walt came through with a 6-2, 6-2 count. The doubles match was rained out and postponed. However, the first set had been played and the local duo of Post and Frumkin won it 6-1.

At the State meet, Washington scored 13 points and came in in 6th place. The doubles team of Stuckert-Walt lost in the semi-finals. Captain Neil Mueller was eliminated in the quarter finals.

Last year's track season opened with a victory against South. The final score was 59-54. The scoring was nip-and-tuck throughout the meet. Up to the last event the score was 54-54. The last event, the half mile relay, was taken by the Tonians by about a 10-yard margin. This relay gave the five-point margin.

Washington then played host to West and to Bay View in a tri-angular meet. Since three schools were competing, the scoring was on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis for first place, second place, etc. The Purgolders scored 98 points and West edged out Bay View for second place. They scored 36 and 33 points respectively.

Lincoln invaded the local campus and was repelled by a 85.5 to 30.5 count. The Lincolnites never really threatened the Hechtmen's superiority.

Coach Hecht took a small squad of boys to Illinois for the Proviso Relays. They brought home the fourth-place trophy, just finishing a small fraction of a point out of second place.

At the time a few of the boys were in Illinois, the rest of the squad had a chance to strut their stuff and downed Marquette High by a 62 to 51 score.

At the annual State meet in Madison, the Purgolders dominated the scoring and brought home a victory trophy.

The City meet saw another Washington victory. The team showed unusual balance by placing at least one man in every event. This meet ended a most successful year for the track team. The school year 1938-39 was a history-making time. It was the first time in city athletic history that one school dominated all three major sports: football, basketball, and track.

Huettl tied for second in the high jump. The combination of Klau, Schroeder, Huettl, and Harder garnered third in the 480-yard high hurdle shuttle. The two mile relay team composed of Raymond, Fortlage, Eannelli, and Reiss took third place. Wehner, Demeter, Oakley, and Campbell sprinted to a fourth place in the 440 yd. relay. In the 220-yard dash Bill Cross and Jerry Bierce nabbed first and third respectively. First and third were also snared in the 880-yard run by Jerry Selas and Jim Derse. Bill Dauterman snared the third spot in the 440-yard run. Hugh Mayer and Lowell Oberly nailed first and third in the mile. The 220-yard low hurdles saw Bob Dunst take first followed by Dennis Lambrecht in second. Dunst also won the 120-yard highs followed by Harold Lynch. The Tonian Bees scalped the East Bees by a 70½-42½ count. The scoring was led by Bill Cross with three firsts. The locals slammed the discus, shot, and high jump. Cross won the 100 and 220-yard dashes with Schultz taking second and third respectively. Dunst and Lynch nabbed first and second in the 120-yard high hurdles and Dunst and Lambrecht took second and third in the 220-yard low hurdles. Bob O'Brien and Jerry Bierce nabbed third spot in the pole vault and broad jump respectively. East won the half-mile relay.

In view of the way the Bees have been mopping up their opponents, Washington's reign as track champions may be continued in the next one or two years.

WAHIAT

Wahiat is the athletic club for girls; it is ably directed by Coach Havens, and Coach Roesling. The ten sports that this club offers to girls are volleyball, dancing, tumbling, basketball, track, badminton, swimming, shuffleboard, and ping pong. For each sport two managers are appointed; they are in charge of the lockers and make out the charts for the bulletin board.

After each major event, the girls of the champion teams are the guests at a tea held in the cafeteria. At the end of the year Wahiat has its big banquet at which it gives the awards to the high-point girls. There usually is an outside speaker at the banquet with a big meal that precedes the speech. The dues are just fifteen cents a semester and twenty-five cents for two semesters, so you see the girls get more for less.

ALL STARS

A little arithmetic problem — total up a few points for volleyball, a few more for baseball, some more for basketball, swimming, ping pong, badminton, tumbling, shuffleboard, dancing, and track, multiply by nine and you have the nine girls who, in seven semesters gained over 300 points. This year's high point girl is Ellen Euler followed close behind by Audrey Carlson. In addition to these the following also distinguished themselves by passing the 300 mark: Lois Genthe, Constance Timme, Ruth Mueller, Betty Heiden, Betty Koehn, and June Perry.

The annual tradition of inscribing the name of the most outstanding girl athlete on the principal's trophy is being carried out with the honor going to Lois Genthe. This girl is elected each year by the junior and senior members of Wahiat. Lois, who is also president of Wahiat is one of the most active as well as popular girls in the club.

VOLLEY BALL

It seems that in volleyball the teams are able to stay as a unit through the three years at Washington. The champion team this year was able, with a few exceptions, to remain as a unit for a number of years. Betty Heiden did a swell job of serving the ball while Virginia Krause was invaluable as a front lineman. The runner-up team is composed of girls not quite as experienced, as they are juniors; but if they remain together, they no doubt will go places in their senior year. Girls who played an outstanding game of volleyball are Margaret Gutmann, Nelrose Hoene, Ellen Cootware, Edith Meyer, LaVerne Boser, Lois Genthe, La Verne Giese, and Gloria Zacher. Doris Kastner and Carlyn Blank were right on the job as managers.

DANCING TUMBLING

Wahiat endeavors to develop not only good sportsmanship but also grace and expression of body through dancing. This activity includes ballet and ballroom dancing. Girls who did exceptional dancing are Ellen Cootware, Margaret Gutman, Virginia Hensel, Mary Hlaban, Louise Koss, Ruth Kemp, Alice Marvic, Ruth Mueller, Esther Mueller, Arlene Maike, Adeline Obot, June Perry, Mary Papke, Lorraine Rizzo, Janet Schuemacher, Eunice Spellman, and Elaine Chandler. Manager Dorothy Resnick was in charge in the lockers.

The girls' tumbling team met on alternate Tuesday nights from 3:20 to approximately 4:15. The group included beginners and advanced tumblers. The beginners were taught the preliminary stunts such as forward and backward rolls. The advanced group was allowed to work ahead on more complicated tricks. This group consisted of Carol and Carlyn Blank, Ellen Euler, Doris Kastner, Dorothy Resnick, Pearl Reineck, and Eunice Spellman.

SHUFFLEBOARD
PING PONG

The shuffleboard tournament, this year, was bigger than ever before with a much greater number of girls participating. All eyes were turned toward Pearl Gustman, who was last year's champion. The outcome of this tournament, however, was a complete surprise to all when Ruth Mueller surged forward to defeat Pearl and take the championship. Games were played after school, a limited time being allotted for each match.

It seems as though you just can't keep Carlyn Blank down. Last year she was runner-up in ping pong, and this year she is champion. Betty Goeckerman, this year's runner-up, did a good job at playing, but Carlyn's hard drives proved a little too much for Betty. Other girls who participated were Carol Blank, Marion Schaeffer, Doris Kastner, Dorothy Hoenes, Wilma Seemuth, Betty Heiden, Lois Genthe, Bernice Igle, LaVern Lumree, June Perry, Mary Mastopietro, Margaret Peter, Edith Hennig, and Jean Maidens.

BASKETBALL

Chalking up victory after victory, the Rockford climbed steadily to the top allowing not even the strong Stephens team to defeat them. This, however, was undoubtedly their toughest battle with a close score all the way through. Rockford owes many of its points to Doris Krause whose height placed her high above the other players on the floor. Other outstanding players were Carol Blank, who in one game scored 17 of the 23 points tallied, Pearl Reineck, Edith Hennig, and Nelrose Hoene.

SWIMMING

The whistle is blown! Splash! They're off! Yes, the swimming meet has once more rolled around. This year the girls were limited, being able to sign up in only two events. The different races were the novelty race, in which the girls had to swim pushing a balloon; 40-yard relay; 40-yard breast stroke; and 40-yard free style. Winners in the events were Margaret Peter, Charlotte Peter, Muriel Stecker, and Lois Genthe. Other girls who competed were Betty Goeckermann, Margaret Gutmann, Virginia Krause, Lorraine Stout, Ione Virgin, Phyllis Thomas, Grace Ripple, Ruth Lemezis, Margaret Dunn, and Elaine Barbara.

BADMINTON

Smashing fast and furiously the Blank twins really gave that little bird and their opponents a workout when they drove their way straight to the doubles championship in the badminton tournament. Having played together before in a city tournament, neither had trouble determining whether the shot was hers or her partners, a complication which somewhat hindered other participants. The stiffest competition they met was the Reineck-Perry combination, while Hoene and Goeckermann also proved a hard team to beat. Runners-up were Betty Koehn and Constance Timme.

BASEBALL

This year, as always, the baseball season was a big affair with nine teams participating in the tournament. As the competition was great, the scores, in may cases, were close. The New Havens team, however, came out on top with New York following close behind. The girls on the winning team were Nelrose Hoene, Captain, Carol and Carlyn Blank, Pearl Reineck, Doris Kastner, Betty Goeckermann, Bernice Igl, Edith Hennig, Kathryn Genrich, Gloria Zacher, Mary Jane Bowen, and Mary Mastopietro.

SCHOOL LIFE

WOULD crackers and milk comprise a meal? Probably—but is that the kind of meal you would want? A complete dinner is what most of us desire—one composed of sizzling steaks, mashed potatoes, salads, vegetables, and topped off with chocolate cream cake. So, too, does a yearbook depend upn a "school-life" section to make it complete. Here we find the cherished memories of the little things that make a high-school career so enjoyable—plays, programs, candid shots of teachers and classroom friends. Those memories might be lost without a visible record. Even a stranger paging through this book can appreciate our school spirit because he sees the little things as well as the big things that are part of that picture titled "Washington".
